Former Chair of Louisiana Gaming Control Board Joins PENN as Independent, Non-Director

WYOMISSING, Pa.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Aug. 4, 2025-- PENN Entertainment, Inc. (“PENN” or the “Company”) (Nasdaq: PENN) announced today that it named former Louisiana Gaming Control Board (“LGCB”) Chair, Ronnie Jones, to the Company’s Compliance Committee. Jones’ appointment to serve as an independent, non-director member was formally approved by PENN’s Board of Directors.

"Ronnie is a well-respected leader in the regulated gaming space, and with his background and experience we’re pleased to add him as an independent member of our Compliance Committee,” said Jay Snowden, PENN’s CEO and President. “Ronnie’s wealth of industry experience will be an asset to the important work of the committee, which is central to our longstanding commitment to gaming industry compliance and integrity.”

Jones served as Chair of the LGCB from 2013 to 2020, as part of a 45-year career in public service to the state, including more than 30 years with the Louisiana State Police. As Chair, Jones was responsible for overseeing operational integrity of all gaming in the state, including 15 riverboat properties, land-based casinos, four racetrack slot gaming facilities and more than 2,000 licensed video poker establishments. His work helped lay the foundation of legislative support for the legalization of sports betting in the state, which occurred in 2022.

In 2017, Jones was named North American Regulator of the Year by the International Masters of Gaming Law.

PENN's Compliance Committee is chaired by an independent non-director member, Thomas N. Auriemma, and also includes newly elected PENN Board members Johnny Hartnett and Carlos Ruisanchez.
